The fire was discovered about 7:30 by some one who passed the school and saw a light. The interior of the structure was all ablaze within a few minutes and as there is absolutely no fire protection in the village, all that could done was to watch the progress of the fire until the building was reduced to ashes. There is about $2,000 insurance and without doubt the school will be rebuilt in the spring.

The extreme cold weather Monday ecessitated running a brisk fire and by night the chimney and registers were hot. It is believed that the blaze caught from an overheated register.

The school building was erected in 1914 upon a site given by Dr. Ross. It was splendidly equipped and furnished and a short time ago many new text books were purchased, all of which were destroyed.
